

Free BBJ Technology Briefing and Workshops...Coming Your Way!

In the fall of 2001, BASIS began hosting Technical Briefings and Workshops (TB&Ws) to communicate the features and functionality of BBJ®. These gatherings are designed to be informal, open forums where BASIS presenters can review and demonstrate BBJ features, its architecture, and the various aspects and advantages of its configuration options.

The TB&Ws are divided into two parts. BASIS presents and demonstrates BBJ in the morning, then lunch is served to the group, followed by an afternoon of "hands-on" demonstrations of BBJ for anyone bringing a laptop.

Everyone is welcome. If you have an existing application you want to get on the Web, or if you're just curious as to how we have built a comprehensive Business BASIC with JAVA, sign up for the TB&W nearest you. You may just want to see the new technology available or the latest in Integrated Development Environments.

If nothing else, come and have lunch on us, and tell BASIS about your current application or the one you are planning to write. We would love to see you. For location information and to sign up online, please visit www.

www.basis.com/events/workshops/index.html